

BOLD CLICKS

bold-clicks.com

Instructions for Claude to design and build an elite, conversion-first, search-ready website for an ads-only agency.

The job is not to make a generic marketing-agency site. The job is to make Bold Clicks feel like the specialized paid-media arm of the Stoneridge family: same DNA, sharper focus, more black, restrained forest green, and a small amount of gold.

NON-NEGOTIABLE

Use the approved Bold Clicks logo asset exactly as supplied by the owner. Do not redraw it, reinterpret it, or create a new logo. The website should make the relationship to Stoneridge visually obvious without looking like a duplicate site.

Primary objective

Turn qualified businesses already spending - or ready to spend - on paid advertising into booked audits / strategy calls, while building long-term organic authority around PPC and paid-media services.

Research basis: Google Search Central, web.dev, Google Ads Help, W3C/WCAG, Stoneridge Digital, Stoneridge Equity, and current paid-media agency sites. Sources are listed at the end of this brief.

DOMAIN STATUS - SEPTEMBER 18, 2026

A public check of bold-clicks.com did not return an indexable live site at the time of research. Treat this as a greenfield build unless the owner provides an existing codebase, DNS/deployment target, or production content that must be preserved.

What Bold Clicks should be

POSITIONING IN ONE SENTENCE

Bold Clicks is the specialist paid-media agency: we run ads, track what happens after the click, and optimize toward real business outcomes - not vanity metrics.

- This is an ads-only brand. Do not position Bold Clicks as a general SEO, website-design, social-media-management, email, reputation, or automation agency.
- The narrow specialization is a strength. The site should repeatedly communicate: specialists, not generalists.
- The core conversion offer should be a free paid-media / ad-account audit or strategy call. Pick one primary CTA sitewide and keep it consistent.
- The site must feel premium and serious enough for healthcare, legal, home-services, and established local businesses - but fast and direct enough for an operator to understand in seconds.
- Every claim must be provable. Never invent ROAS, revenue, client counts, partner badges, case-study numbers, testimonials, awards, or platform certifications.

What success looks like

| ITEM        | REQUIREMENT                                                                                                                                                |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Business    | Qualified inbound leads and booked calls from businesses with meaningful ad budgets.                                                                       |
| Brand       | Immediate visual connection to Stoneridge, but a distinct paid-media identity.                                                                             |
| SEO         | Strong crawlability, clear topical architecture, original expert content, and indexable pages aligned to real search intent.                               |
| CRO         | Clear offer, proof, low-friction forms, visible CTA, strong mobile experience, and message match between ads and landing pages.                            |
| Measurement | Every form, call, booked meeting, qualified lead, and closed customer can be attributed back to source/campaign where legally and technically appropriate. |
| Performance | Fast mobile experience with Core Web Vitals in Google's "good" range on real-user data wherever feasible.                                                  |

What current research says

Google continues to emphasize helpful, reliable, people-first content; crawlable links; strong page experience; and technical accessibility to Googlebot. Google also says the same core SEO practices apply to AI Overviews and AI Mode - there is no separate magic "GEO" shortcut. Current strong paid-media agency sites commonly lead with a concrete outcome, proof, a free audit/consultation offer, case studies, service specificity, and measurement language.

02 / BRAND SYSTEM

Visual direction

| ITEM          | REQUIREMENT                                                                        |
|---------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Primary black | #0B0D0C - use as the visual anchor: hero backgrounds, headers, strong type, cards. |

|                   |                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Stoneridge forest | #2F4428 - sampled from the current Stoneridge Digital mark; use for key accents and continuity.                                                                          |
| Stoneridge sage   | #6C815F - secondary green for charts, dividers, icons, hover states.                                                                                                     |
| Warm cream        | #F3F2E7 - use instead of pure white in selected sections to preserve the Stoneridge family feel.                                                                         |
| Gold accent       | #C6A15B - use sparingly for small highlights, rules, click indicators, or premium detail. Gold should never dominate.                                                    |
| Typography        | Bold geometric sans for headlines; clean, highly legible sans for body. Keep weights limited and self-host only the font files actually used if custom fonts are chosen. |

Design language

- High contrast, spacious, modern, and minimal. More black than Stoneridge Digital, but unmistakably related through green, cream, and restrained gold.
- Flat, crisp brand graphics. Avoid shiny 3D logos, neon gradients, generic stock "marketing" illustrations, rocket ships, fake dashboards, and overdone glow effects.
- Use subtle ridge / upward-motion geometry as a supporting motif, not as a repeated mountain graphic on every section.
- Buttons: primary = forest green or cream-on-black depending on background; secondary = outline. Gold can be a micro-accent, not a full gold button everywhere.
- Motion should be subtle and purposeful: small hover lift, number count-up only if values are real, lightweight reveal transitions. No heavy parallax or autoplay background video.
- Use authentic team/client/work imagery when available. If no real photography exists, use typography, diagrams, platform UI crops, and tasteful abstract brand geometry rather than stock handshake photos.

Voice

VOICE TEST

If the copy could be pasted onto 100 other agencies and still work, rewrite it.

- Short, confident, specific sentences. Plain English. Operator-to-operator.
- Use the language buyers use: ad spend, qualified leads, booked calls, CAC, cost per lead, revenue, ROAS, tracking, landing pages, wasted spend.
- Avoid empty phrases such as "unlock your potential," "360-degree marketing," "cutting-edge solutions," "synergy," and "results-driven" unless followed by concrete proof.
- Do not promise guaranteed ROAS or guaranteed growth.
- Preferred brand line to test: "We run ads. That's it. We get obsessive about making them work."

| Legal                      | Privacy Policy, Terms, and cookie/consent page if required for actual tracking footprint/jurisdictions. |

SEO WARNING

Do not launch dozens or hundreds of near-duplicate city pages. Google explicitly treats substantially similar regional pages that funnel users to the same destination as potential doorway abuse. Location pages should exist only when there is genuine local relevance, unique proof, and useful local content.

Navigation

- Services
- Industries
- Case Studies
- Insights
- About
- Get a Free Audit

Desktop navigation should stay compact. On mobile, use a simple menu and keep the primary CTA visible. Do not bury the conversion action inside a mega-menu.

|----------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Homepage            | Title direction: Paid Media Agency for Lead Generation   Bold Clicks. Intent: broad commercial. H1 can remain brand-led if the supporting copy clearly states paid-media/PPC agency services. |
| Google Ads          | Title: Google Ads Management   Bold Clicks. Intent: Google Ads agency / management. Include Search, PMax where appropriate, bidding, negatives, conversion quality, and account ownership.    |
| Meta Ads            | Title: Meta Ads Management   Bold Clicks. Intent: Facebook/Instagram advertising management. Emphasize creative testing, audience strategy, lead quality, and CRM feedback.                   |
| Microsoft Ads       | Title: Microsoft Ads Management   Bold Clicks. Intent: Bing/Microsoft paid search. Explain when it fits and how it complements Google.                                                        |
| YouTube Ads         | Title: YouTube Ads Management   Bold Clicks. Intent: video advertising management. Explain audience, creative, measurement, and funnel role.                                                  |
| Conversion Tracking | Title: PPC Conversion Tracking & Attribution   Bold Clicks. Intent: conversion tracking / offline lead quality / CRM attribution.                                                             |
| Industries hub      | Title: Paid Media by Industry   Bold Clicks. Route users to only the verticals where Bold Clicks has real experience and differentiated insight.                                              |
| Case Studies        | Title: Paid Media Case Studies   Bold Clicks. Every case study needs context, actions, timeframe, and verified outcomes.                                                                      |
| Insights            | Title: PPC & Paid Media Insights   Bold Clicks. Publish original, expert-reviewed content that supports service pages and buyer questions.                                                    |
| Free Audit          | Title: Free PPC / Ad Account Audit   Bold Clicks. Keep distraction low; one conversion goal; preserve source data into CRM.                                                                   |

KEYWORD RULE

Map one primary search intent to each commercial page. Do not make multiple near-duplicate pages fight for the same keyword. Use supporting terms naturally; do not force exact-match phrases into every heading.

04 / HOMEPAGE BLUEPRINT

Homepage should answer five questions fast

1. What do you do?
2. Who is it for?
3. Why should I trust you?
4. What makes you different?
5. What should I do next?

Recommended section order

1. Hero

Eyebrow: PAID MEDIA, BUILT TO PERFORM.

H1 direction: "We run ads. That's it."

Subhead: Google, Meta, Microsoft and YouTube campaigns built around qualified leads, booked calls and revenue - with tracking that shows what actually worked.

Primary CTA: Get My Free Ad Audit. Secondary: See How We Work.

2. Proof strip

Client logos, platform badges, spend managed, leads generated, or results - only if verified. If proof is not ready, use credible process proof rather than filler numbers.

3. The problem

Call out wasted spend, weak tracking, generic agencies, and reports that stop at clicks/leads instead of business outcomes.

4. What we manage

Four or five clean cards for Google Ads, Meta Ads, Microsoft Ads, YouTube Ads, and Conversion Tracking / Attribution.

5. Why Bold Clicks

Specialists not generalists; direct accountability; clear tracking; business-outcome focus; transparent access to accounts and data.

6. How it works

Audit -> Build / Rebuild -> Launch -> Optimize -> Scale. Each step should explain what the client gets.

7. Case studies

Show 2-4 real cases. Each card: client type, starting problem, actions, verified outcome, time period. Link to full case study.

8. Industries

Show the industries where the team already understands lead economics, compliance, customer intent, and sales cycles.

9. Measurement

Explain call tracking, CRM connection, qualified-lead feedback, and why "a lead" is not the final metric.

10. FAQ

Answer objections: pricing, minimum ad spend, ownership of ad accounts, contract structure, how quickly campaigns launch, what platforms are managed, whether clients keep their accounts/data.

11. Final CTA

Strong dark section: "Want to know where your ad spend is leaking?" + audit form / booking button.

Homepage copy rules

- Do not stuff the homepage with every keyword. Give the homepage a broad paid-media / PPC agency topic and let service pages target specific intent.
- Keep the first viewport clean: one main promise, one short subhead, one primary CTA, one supporting CTA, and at most one compact proof line.
- No slider/carousel in the hero. No modal before the visitor can read the page.
- Use real screenshots or anonymized account visuals only when client confidentiality allows.

Paid campaign landing-page system

- Build a reusable landing-page template for paid campaigns with tight message match between ad, keyword/audience, headline, proof, and CTA.
- Keep paid landing pages focused: minimal navigation, fast load, one primary conversion action, clear trust signals, and no unnecessary exits.
- Preserve UTMs and click identifiers through forms and booking flows. The thank-you state must fire the correct event only after a real submission/booking.
- Default duplicate campaign variants to noindex or canonical handling unless a page is intentionally unique enough to serve organic search. Do not flood the index with thin ad variants.
- Create industry/offer variants only when the copy, proof, qualification questions, and conversion logic are genuinely different.

05 / SERVICE PAGE TEMPLATE

Every service page needs a distinct job

Each commercial page should satisfy the search intent better than a generic service blurb. It should be useful enough to stand on its own, with concrete deliverables, process, proof, FAQs, and an obvious next step.

| ITEM                  | REQUIREMENT                                                                                                                                       |
|-----------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Title tag      | Unique, concise, descriptive. Example: Google Ads Management   Bold Clicks.                                                                       |
| H1             | One clear primary heading describing the service and outcome.                                                                                     |
| Above fold     | Who it is for, what is managed, why Bold Clicks, CTA.                                                                                             |
| Deliverables   | Campaign audit/build, keyword/audience strategy, ad creative, negatives/exclusions, bidding, budget allocation, testing, optimization, reporting. |
| Measurement    | Conversion setup, calls/forms, CRM handoff, qualified-lead/closed-sale feedback where possible.                                                   |
| Proof          | Relevant case study, real testimonial, benchmark, or process evidence.                                                                            |
| Process        | What happens in week 1, launch, ongoing optimization, reporting cadence.                                                                          |
| FAQ            | Answer real sales questions. Keep FAQ visible to users regardless of schema decisions.                                                            |
| CTA            | Free audit / strategy call with message match to the service page.                                                                                |
| Internal links | Link to related industry pages, case studies, conversion tracking, and helpful insights using descriptive anchor text.                            |

Google Ads page - content to cover

- Search campaigns
- Performance Max where appropriate
- Shopping / feed strategy if the client is ecommerce
- Keyword and negative-keyword control
- Ad copy and assets
- Geo/device/daypart/budget strategy
- Call and form tracking
- Landing-page alignment
- Search-term review and waste reduction
- Qualified-lead and revenue feedback loop

Meta Ads page - content to cover

- Prospecting vs remarketing
- Creative testing system
- Audience strategy
- Offer and funnel fit
- Lead forms vs website conversion
- Pixel + Conversions API where appropriate
- Frequency / fatigue monitoring
- Lead quality feedback and CRM outcome tracking

06 / INDUSTRY PAGES + CASE STUDIES

Industry pages must be genuinely different

The Stoneridge team already presents experience in healthcare, legal, and home-services verticals. Bold Clicks can use that expertise, but the page must demonstrate how paid media differs by vertical - not swap the industry name into the same template.

| ITEM                  | REQUIREMENT                                                                                                                |
|-----------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Healthcare     | Lead value, appointment intent, location radius, call handling, privacy/compliance considerations, service-line economics. |
| Dental / Ortho | Emergency vs elective intent, treatment-value differences, call/booking quality, geographic competition.                   |
| Med Spa        | Offer fatigue, creative velocity, audience quality, lead follow-up speed, treatment economics.                             |
| Legal          | Case-type value, high CPCs, qualification, call quality, geographic and practice-area targeting.                           |
| Home Services  | Urgency, service radius, seasonality, call conversion, Local Services Ads relationship where relevant.                     |

DO NOT CREATE THIN VERTICAL PAGES

An industry page should contain specific audience/search behavior, campaign structure, common waste patterns, KPI choices, objections, proof, and FAQs. If Bold Clicks cannot say something distinct and useful, do not publish the page yet.

Case study template

- Client profile: industry, geography, business model. Use the client name only with permission.
- Starting point: what was wrong or constrained before the engagement.
- Objective: qualified leads, appointments, purchases, revenue, CAC, ROAS, etc.
- What Bold Clicks changed: campaign structure, tracking, audiences, creatives, landing pages, budget allocation.
- Measured outcome: actual verified figures with date range and definition of metric.
- Context: note material conditions such as ad spend change, seasonality, or offer changes so the case study is not misleading.
- CTA to get an audit.

07 / SEO + SEARCH STRATEGY

Primary organic search themes

Start with service-intent queries and build topical depth over time. Do not create pages solely because a keyword exists; each page needs a clear user purpose.

| ITEM          | REQUIREMENT                                                                                 |
|---------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Core   | paid media agency; PPC agency; PPC management; paid search agency; paid advertising agency. |
| Google | Google Ads agency; Google Ads management; Google PPC management; paid search management.    |
| Meta   | Meta Ads agency; Facebook Ads management; Instagram Ads management; paid social agency.     |

|------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Microsoft | Microsoft Ads management; Bing Ads agency.                                                                                                                         |
| YouTube   | YouTube Ads management; YouTube advertising agency.                                                                                                                |
| Vertical  | Google Ads for dentists; dental PPC agency; med spa PPC; legal PPC; home services PPC; plus other vertical combinations only where Bold Clicks has real expertise. |
| Education | PPC management cost; Google Ads budget; why Google Ads leads are low quality; how to track qualified leads; PMax vs Search; what a good PPC agency should report.  |

On-page SEO rules

- Unique title and meta description for every indexable page; descriptive titles, not keyword lists.
- One clear visual H1; logical H2/H3 hierarchy; headings should help users scan.
- Use the phrases buyers actually use naturally in titles, headings, body copy, alt text, and internal-link anchors where relevant.
- Descriptive URLs using hyphens; keep them short and stable.
- Every important page should have crawlable HTML links from at least one relevant hub or navigation path.
- Use descriptive internal anchor text; avoid "click here" as the default.
- Write useful image alt text for meaningful images. Decorative imagery should use empty alt attributes.
- Do not publish AI-generated filler. Google's policies target scaled, unoriginal content created primarily to manipulate rankings, regardless of whether AI produced it.

Content moat

- Original ad-account teardown lessons and anonymized screenshots.
- Real case studies with spend ranges and outcomes when permissible.
- Industry-specific benchmarks generated from Bold Clicks client data, only when sample size is sufficient and methodology is disclosed.
- Useful calculators: break-even CPL / CAC, required close rate, budget planning. Tools should actually work and not exist only for SEO.
- Platform update analysis that explains what changed, who it affects, and what the team is doing differently.
- Expert commentary from the people actually managing accounts.

08 / TECHNICAL SEO + PERFORMANCE

Build for speed and crawlability first

| ITEM                   | REQUIREMENT                                                                                                                                            |
|------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Rendering       | Prefer server-rendered or statically generated HTML for core marketing content. Do not require a click or client-side API call to reveal primary copy. |
| Responsive      | One responsive site on the same URLs. Google uses the mobile version for indexing and ranking.                                                         |
| Core Web Vitals | Target good field performance at the 75th percentile: LCP <= 2.5s, INP <= 200ms, CLS <= 0.1.                                                           |
| JavaScript      | Keep JS lean. Avoid animation libraries or page builders that add large runtime cost without a conversion benefit.                                     |
| Images          | Use AVIF/WebP where practical; responsive srcset/sizes; explicit width/height; lazy-load below-fold images; do not lazy-load the main hero/LCP image.  |

|                            |                                                                                                                             |
|----------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Fonts               | Use system fonts or self-hosted WOFF2; preload only essential above-fold font files; avoid loading many weights.            |
| Third-party scripts | Load calendar/chat/heatmap widgets on interaction or after critical content where feasible. Audit every third-party script. |
| Status codes        | Indexable pages return 200. Permanently moved URLs use server-side 301 redirects. Custom useful 404 page.                   |
| HTTPS               | HTTPS everywhere; one canonical host; redirect HTTP and alternate host variants.                                            |

Required technical SEO

- Self-referencing canonical on every canonical indexable page.
- XML sitemap containing canonical indexable URLs only; submit in Google Search Console.
- robots.txt that permits important pages/resources. Do not use robots.txt as a substitute for noindex.
- Noindex staging, thank-you/test pages, internal search pages, and other pages that should not appear in search. Ensure Google can crawl pages where noindex must be seen.
- Open Graph / social metadata for share previews.
- Stable favicon and site-name signals.
- Breadcrumbs on service, industry, insight, and case-study pages.

PERFORMANCE ACCEPTANCE TARGET

Before launch, test representative pages on mobile and desktop. Performance must be measured in both lab tools and real-user field data after traffic begins; Lighthouse alone cannot prove INP field performance.

09 / STRUCTURED DATA + AI SEARCH

Structured data

- Organization JSON-LD on the homepage with official name, URL, logo, contact details, sameAs profiles, and address only if it is a real public business location.
- BreadcrumbList on hierarchical pages.
- Article / BlogPosting markup on editorial content when fields are accurate.
- Service / ProfessionalService schema can be used semantically where valid, but do not promise a special Google rich result from it.
- Only mark up information that is visible and true. Validate JSON-LD before launch.
- Do not rely on FAQPage schema for a marketing-agency rich result. Google says FAQ rich results are generally limited to well-known authoritative government and health sites. Still include helpful visible FAQs for users.

AI Overviews / AI Mode

Google's 2026 guidance says normal SEO fundamentals remain the foundation for generative AI Search. Build content that is crawlable, useful, original, and non-commodity. Claude should optimize for clarity and evidence, not chase gimmicks.

- Answer important questions directly near the top, then support them with specifics, examples, and proof.
- Use clear entity language: Bold Clicks, what it does, the platforms it manages, industries served, and how its process works.
- Make original evidence easy to find: case studies, methodology, data, screenshots, named experts, dates.
- Keep important content in HTML and crawlable without user interaction.
- Do not create unnecessary AI-only files or gimmicks as a substitute for strong content. Google says no new machine-readable AI text files or special schema are required to appear in AI Overviews or AI Mode.

10 / CONVERSION-FIRST UX

The website should behave like a great landing page

Google Ads guidance emphasizes relevance, usefulness, ease of navigation, mobile experience, and message match between the ad and landing page. Bold Clicks should demonstrate those principles on its own site.

Primary CTA system

- Use one main sitewide CTA: "Get a Free Ad Audit" (or another final owner-approved phrase).
- Keep the CTA in the header, hero, after major proof sections, and near the footer.
- On mobile, consider a restrained sticky bottom CTA after the user scrolls past the hero.
- The audit page should reduce navigation distraction and focus on one conversion action.
- Forms should be short. Ask only what is needed to qualify and route the lead. Additional qualification can happen after initial conversion or in a second step.

Form fields to test

| ITEM                      | REQUIREMENT                                                                                                                                                             |
|---------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Required           | Name; business email; company / website; primary ad platform or need.                                                                                                   |
| Optional qualifier | Approximate monthly ad spend range; industry; phone.                                                                                                                    |
| Hidden tracking    | UTM source/medium/campaign/content/term; gclid; gbraid/wbraid where available; landing page; referrer; first-touch + last-touch fields if infrastructure supports them. |
| Thank-you          | Dedicated confirmation state/page with calendar option, next steps, and a tracked conversion event.                                                                     |

Proof hierarchy

- Verified case-study results
- Real client logos with permission
- Real testimonials with attribution
- Platform certifications/partner status only if current and provable
- Transparent process
- Team expertise and account ownership model

11 / ANALYTICS + ATTRIBUTION

Track the business outcome, not just the form submit

| ITEM                    | REQUIREMENT                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|-------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Tag layer        | Google Tag Manager or an equivalent governed tag layer.                                                                                                                                         |
| Analytics        | GA4 with recommended lead-generation events where appropriate: generate_lead, qualify_lead, working_lead, close_convert_lead, etc.                                                              |
| Google Ads       | Native conversion actions for critical leads; enhanced conversions when consent/policy requirements are met.                                                                                    |
| Offline outcomes | Feed qualified lead and closed-customer outcomes back to ad platforms where technically and legally appropriate. Google now emphasizes Data Manager for enhanced-conversions/offline workflows. |
| Calls            | Track click-to-call and, if using call tracking, meaningful calls rather than every dial                                                                                                        |

as equal.

CRM

Preferred: send website leads into the same GoHighLevel workflow used in current Stoneridge operations, preserving original source, UTM data, landing page, and click IDs. If Bold Clicks uses a different CRM, preserve this exact data model.

Privacy

Implement consent and privacy controls appropriate to the actual jurisdictions, tags, cookies, and advertising platforms. Do not hard-code tracking that ignores consent requirements.

Events Claude should expose to the data layer

- cta_click
- form_start
- generate_lead
- phone_click
- calendar_open
- appointment_booked
- case_study_view
- pricing_or_qualifier_interaction

MEASUREMENT RULE

Every CTA and form must have a defined event name, trigger condition, and destination. The site is not "done" if the UI works but attribution is ambiguous.

12 / ACCESSIBILITY + TRUST + SECURITY

Build to WCAG 2.2 AA principles

- Keyboard-accessible navigation, forms, accordions, dialogs, and menus.
- Visible focus states. Do not remove outlines without replacing them with a clearly visible focus treatment.
- Text/background contrast that meets accessibility requirements; do not use gold or sage for low-contrast body text.
- Comfortable tap targets; WCAG 2.2 adds a minimum target-size criterion of 24x24 CSS px with defined exceptions, but use larger practical touch targets for primary actions.
- Form labels, instructions, accessible error messages, autocomplete attributes, and logical tab order.
- Reduced-motion preference respected for animation.
- Meaningful alt text; decorative elements excluded from screen-reader noise.

Trust + security

- Real legal business details in footer/contact pages.
- Privacy policy and terms linked in footer.
- Secure HTTPS forms; server-side validation; anti-spam protection that does not create excessive friction.
- No exposed API keys or secrets in client-side code.
- If testimonials or case-study screenshots contain client data, obtain permission and redact sensitive information.
- Account ownership language should be explicit: client retains ownership/access to ad accounts and data unless the actual commercial agreement says otherwise.

13 / CONTENT SYSTEM

Do not build a content farm

The site should grow through a small number of strong, expert pages, not hundreds of generic AI articles. Every article needs a reason to exist: answer a buyer question, demonstrate expertise, support a service page, earn links, or help an existing client.

Best content formats for Bold Clicks

- Ad-spend budget guides by platform or vertical.
- Break-even CPL/CAC calculators and accompanying methodology pages.
- Search-term waste checklists and account-audit frameworks.
- Platform update explainers with a "what we are changing in accounts" section.
- Landing-page teardown articles.
- Case studies and before/after account structures.
- Industry-specific paid-media playbooks based on real experience.
- Measurement guides: tracking qualified leads, offline conversions, call tracking, CRM feedback loops.

Editorial template

- Answer first: give the reader the direct answer in the opening section.
- Add original experience/data: what Bold Clicks has seen, tested, or measured.
- Show methodology and limitations when publishing benchmarks.
- Add a named reviewer/author when there is a real expert behind the content.
- Link naturally to the most relevant service, case study, and related article.
- Update date only when content materially changes; do not fake freshness.

13A / AUTHORITY + DISTRIBUTION

Ranking well requires authority, not just on-page SEO

- Earn links and mentions through real work: client case studies, partner/vendor directories, guest expert commentary, original benchmarks, useful tools, podcasts, and trade publications.
- Create link-worthy assets that deserve citations: benchmark reports with methodology, ad-budget calculators, tracking templates, teardown frameworks, and original survey/data studies.
- Ask willing clients and portfolio companies to link to relevant case studies or partnership pages when it is natural and accurate.
- Keep business profiles and major directory information consistent. If Bold Clicks establishes a public office and local search is strategically important, build one factual location page and manage the matching business profile - do not fake offices or service-area pages.
- Do not buy bulk backlinks, use private blog networks, publish spun guest posts, or participate in link schemes. Treat outreach as distribution of genuinely useful assets, not a volume link quota.

EXPERIENCE SIGNALS

Show real operators, real process, real screenshots, real dates, and real outcomes. Named authors/reviewers and first-hand evidence strengthen trust. Do not claim that E-E-A-T is a single ranking score or fabricate credentials to imitate it.

14 / BUILD RULES FOR CLAUDE

Recommended implementation characteristics

Claude may choose the exact framework based on the deployment environment, but the implementation must satisfy the following. If using Next.js or a similar framework, default to static/server-rendered marketing pages and minimize client-side components.

- Component system: reusable Hero, ProofStrip, ServiceCard, CaseStudyCard, ProcessSteps, CTASection, FAQAccordion, LeadForm, Breadcrumbs, AuthorCard.
- Central content/data objects for nav, services, industries, case studies, testimonials, FAQs, and SEO metadata. Avoid copy duplicated across hard-coded components.
- CMS only if the owner needs frequent non-developer edits. Do not add a heavy CMS solely because it is fashionable.
- Clean semantic HTML: header, nav, main, section, article, aside, footer as appropriate.
- Progressive enhancement: primary content and navigation work without relying on heavy client-side JavaScript.
- No layout shifts from images, fonts, banners, forms, or embeds.
- Lazy-load Calendly/booking, chat, heatmaps, and other third parties when feasible.
- Create a reusable SEO metadata function and JSON-LD helpers; validate outputs.
- Generate sitemap.xml and robots.txt programmatically from the canonical route set.

- Staging environment must be noindex and protected from accidental public indexing.
- Add clear README / deployment notes so another developer can maintain the site.

Do not do these things

- Do not copy competitor copy or design.
- Do not fabricate results, logos, certifications, or reviews.
- Do not hide important SEO copy in interactions that require clicks to load.
- Do not generate hundreds of templated city or service pages.
- Do not make all text animate in on scroll.
- Do not use giant videos, 4K background media, or huge JavaScript bundles for decoration.
- Do not add a chatbot or popup before the core page content is usable.
- Do not ship lorem ipsum, placeholder metrics, or dead buttons.

15 / LAUNCH ACCEPTANCE CHECKLIST

The site is ready only when all of this passes

- ☐ Approved Bold Clicks logo used exactly; favicon created from approved mark.
- ☐ Brand colors match this brief; black dominant, forest green supporting, gold restrained.
- ☐ All primary navigation and CTA links work on desktop and mobile.
- ☐ Every indexable page has unique title, meta description, H1, canonical, Open Graph tags.
- ☐ XML sitemap generated and submitted to Google Search Console.
- ☐ robots.txt reviewed; staging/test routes are not indexable.
- ☐ Organization and Breadcrumb structured data validated where used.
- ☐ No FAQ rich-result promises; visible FAQs remain useful to humans.
- ☐ Representative pages pass mobile responsiveness QA.
- ☐ Core Web Vitals are designed to meet good thresholds; lab performance is strong before launch.
- ☐ Images have explicit dimensions; hero image is optimized; below-fold images lazy-load.
- ☐ Keyboard navigation and focus states tested.
- ☐ Forms validate cleanly, submit successfully, and show a clear confirmation state.
- ☐ Lead source / UTM / click ID data reaches the CRM where supported.
- ☐ GA4 and ad-platform events verified in debug/test modes.
- ☐ Phone links and booking links are tracked.
- ☐ Consent/privacy implementation matches actual tracking footprint and jurisdictions.
- ☐ 404 page works; HTTP/HTTPS and host variants redirect to one canonical host.
- ☐ No placeholder claims, fake stats, stock testimonials, fake logos, or unverified partner badges.
- ☐ Search Console property verified; launch crawl/indexing checks completed.
- ☐ Backup / rollback plan exists before DNS or production deploy.

16 / COPY-PASTE DIRECTIVE FOR CLAUDE

Use this as the build instruction

CLAUDE DIRECTIVE

Build bold-clicks.com as a premium, conversion-first paid-media agency website using the approved Bold Clicks logo. Bold Clicks runs ads - do not turn it into a full-service marketing agency. The visual system should clearly belong to the Stoneridge family: dominant black, forest green #2F4428, supporting sage #6C815F, warm cream #F3F2E7, and very restrained gold #C6A15B. Keep the design modern, spacious, fast, and serious. The primary sitewide conversion should be a free paid-media/ad-account audit. Build the pages, components, content structure, technical SEO, analytics hooks, structured data, accessibility, and performance requirements defined in this brief. Do not fabricate proof. If a metric, testimonial, certification, client logo, address, pricing number, or case-study result has not been supplied, create a clearly labeled content placeholder in the content model - never publish invented data.

Then execute in this order

1. Create the information architecture and route map.
2. Build the global design system and reusable components.
3. Build the homepage and free-audit page first; validate mobile UX and performance.
4. Build the services hub + platform service pages.
5. Build industries and case-study templates with unique content requirements.
6. Implement forms + CRM/measurement hooks.
7. Implement metadata, canonicals, sitemap, robots, JSON-LD, breadcrumbs, favicon, social cards.
8. Run accessibility and performance QA.
9. Run a crawl-style QA: broken links, duplicate titles/descriptions, missing canonicals, accidental noindex, redirect chains.
10. Provide a final launch checklist and list of any owner-supplied content still required.

17 / RESEARCH NOTES + SOURCES

Why these requirements are in the brief

Google Search fundamentals

Google says successful sites should create helpful, reliable, people-first content; use the words people search for in prominent places; make links crawlable; and ensure images, video, structured data, and JavaScript are understandable to Search.

Performance

web.dev defines the current Core Web Vitals "good" thresholds as LCP  $\leq$  2.5 seconds, INP  $\leq$  200 ms, and CLS  $\leq$  0.1.

Mobile-first

Google uses the mobile version of content for indexing/ranking and recommends responsive design.

AI Search

Google says the same SEO foundations apply to AI Overviews and AI Mode. There are no extra technical requirements or special schema for inclusion; useful, unique content and normal crawlability/indexability fundamentals remain the priority.

Landing-page quality

Google Ads documentation emphasizes relevance, usefulness, ease of navigation, mobile experience, speed, and strong message match between ads and landing pages.

Scaled pages

Google's spam policies warn against doorway pages and scaled, low-value content - a reason to avoid mass-generated city/industry templates.

Structured data

Google supports Organization and Breadcrumb structured data. FAQ rich results are generally limited to authoritative government and health sites.

Measurement

Google Ads and Analytics documentation supports enhanced conversions and lead-funnel events; in 2026 Google expanded Data Manager as a key route for enhanced-conversion/offline data.

Accessibility

WCAG 2.2 adds focus and target-size requirements that support keyboard and touch users.

Competitive pattern

Current sites from Disruptive Advertising, HawkSEM, WebFX, and Single Grain consistently use concrete offers, proof/case studies, specific paid-media capabilities, strong CTA repetition, and measurement language. Bold Clicks should use the pattern without copying their design or copy.
